Our History

Steeped in history, our charming Georgian Townhouse is situated in the centre of the bustling town of South Molton, right on the edge of the rolling Exmoor hills.

The current Grade II listed building dates back to the 1730s with a previous inn standing in the existing building's footsteps. Records show that it's been an entertaining space for the locals of South Molton for as long as 150 years, just as it continues to do so today. Rich in opulent staircases and original stained glass windows, if you're looking to stay in accommodation with character, you won't find better in the local area.

Our Location in North Devon

South Molton is a historic market town which lies to the south western boundary of Exmoor National Park and is an ideal base to explore Exmoor itself, Dartmoor, the towns of the area and, in particular its coastline.

Our Facilities

There are 12 En-suite Boutique Bedrooms arranged over the 1st and 2nd floors. All bedrooms include tea & coffee making facilities, hair dryer, digital TV and wireless internet access.

The George also hosts two private rooms, The Georgian Room and The Exmoor Room which can accommodate between 2 to 100 guests dependant on your event. Whether it be a meeting, lunch, dinner or wedding celebration The George will ensure your event is a complete success.
